Only two of the large cities report a city. decline of bank clearances, while the New clearings have risen nearly 53 per cent. owing to the immense shipments to Europe. With an increase in tariff and a consequent decrease in purchases from Europe, we are selling the Old World more than ever. Though the foreigners would like to retaliate upon our tariff and punish us for protecting our treasury and industries, they can do it only by starving themselves. Eng. land, France and Germany are not selfsupporting, and must always import more or less of breadstuffs. This year the United States is the only country that has any considerable amount for sale, and the Engligh, the Germans and also the French must buy from us at our price. That price shows some signs of getting high, and making wheaten bread expensive over there. But we need the money, and can find employment for all that comes this way.

The upward tendency is general and not confined to any one line of business The course of trade today is ac illustration of the sympathetic movement in prices. A good price and good demand for wheat causes corn to look up for the disappearance of a surplus of one crop means greater use of the other in ways in which they are interchangeable. In addition, the seller of wheat has more to spend, and can pay more for what he buys. Thus a better price for manufactured goods inures to the benefit of those in other occupations.

Fire Did It.

Two steam threshers were at work ignited one of Mr. Smith's stacks and for a time the stack yard and machine were in peril. The force of men from both machines began at once to fight fire but the stack was so dry that they found it a desperate struggle. They saved the machine and other stacks, Anibal Ed. and Phoebe J. Hinkle, fought furiously for the stack after a wheat stack is worth fighting for nowa pump, bucket brigades and tore the stack in sections, yet it had to be gives up and was lost. Time and again they thought they had the fire con quered but the grain was so dry that fire would break out in a new place al most like an explosion. A stack of wheat now is the same as a full bearded bank account and the loss, so untimely, so near and yet so far, is one of those disappointing links, which snapping in the chain of life, warns us that all at best is uncertainty. The company at the back of the Corposed of Lincoln township farmers and business men and it now remains to be seen whether or not the creamery will be a paying concern. However, knowing the gentlemen as we do, we have every reason to believe that it will be a financial success to those interested, as they are starting out in a business way and will, themselves, keep stock enough to supply the creamery with milk besides that brought in through other sources. In this way it seems to us the business should be a success of the sources. In this way it seems to us the business should be a success of the sources. Aug 27.

Miss Lydia was attending school in the grove, but said to her sunt that she would not go to school that day;her aunt hearing a noise in an adjoining room, a few minutes after, stepped into the room and found her niece in a spasam. She asked her after she came out of the spasam what she had done, and she said she had taken strychnine. Her aunt said, what did you take it for? She replied that she was tired of living. The young lady's father is living near Waverly, Illinois. A dispatch has been sent to him as to what shall be done with the body. As no answer had been received up to present writing it is not known yet whether she will be buried here, or her remains shipped to Illinois, for interment by the side of her mother

County Court. The September term of county court is now being held, and owing to stubborn fighting in some cases, but little routine business has been accom-plished. county.

Rridge Commissioner Landon let a umber of bridges on Wednesday, and in the afternoon the court took up the Payne-Jimison road case, and it promises to be one of the most stubbornly fought cases that has been before the court for a long time. Mr. Jas. B. Paye has asked for a certain road and Mr. Jimison re-monetrates. $1413 was deposited with Treasurer Proud as the amount paid by the citizens of Mound City toward the building of a road from that city to Bigelow. This we believe will be the starting point, and and we presume the court will order a survey made and specifications prepared, when the work will be let by contract. The court will also appropriate a ike sum to aid in the improve
